

APM Project Professional Qualification (PPQ)

The new APM Project Professional Qualification (PPQ) is an examination based qualification that assesses your capability in delivering projects, programmes and portfolios. Covering the core and specific competences project professionals require across all areas of the profession, the APM Project Professional Qualification is the most comprehensive assessment of professional project management capability available.

Who is it for?

The APM Project Professional Qualification is aimed at any project professional either:

- working in project, programme or portfolio management,
- holding the APM Project Management Qualification or equivalent,
- looking to become a Full member of APM (MAPM).

How is it examined?

The PPQ is a demonstration of the application of knowledge and comprises three core modules and one role specific elective module. Each module is examined through a written paper of three hours in duration which is scenario based. A candidate can bring five pages of notes into a PPQ examination.

The modules

Core (all three)	Elective (one from three)
Module 1 Professionalism and managing others	Module 4 Project management
Module 2 Planning and control	Module 5 Programme management
Module 3 Governance	Module 6 Portfolio management

Organisation benefits

- The modular structure enables you to demonstrate your commitment to developing the best talent across your whole project management community.
- Elective modules help you develop the right skills for the right roles.
- It demonstrates your commitment to delivering successful projects, programmes and portfolios.
- Investing in the people who deliver your projects, programmes and portfolios raises the profile and standard of project management within your organisation management.

Individual benefits

- Provides you with structured personal development to help develop your career.
- Improves your chances when applying for new roles.
- Enables you to engage more effectively and confidently with peers, clients and employers.
- Builds your professional status to help you stand out from the crowd.
