Virtual classroom tutor-led training

Overview

Provek's general courses are for those aiming to achieve broad-based project or programme management training based on best-practice, but without the added pressure of exams. Provek can provide a dedicated in-house single client course for your organisation through a virtual classroom. Most courses can also be tailored to an organisation's specific needs.

Highly interactive virtual training

These general courses are tutor-led 'virtual' classrooms delivered over Zoom. The Zoom tool provides a powerful combination of video, virtual whiteboards and breakout rooms for small group exercises. It simulates very closely to a classroom learning environment but with the advantage of geographic flexibility and zero travel costs.

Our expert trainers deliver highly interactive and enjoyable training with participative exercises, case studies and revision questions.

These courses are designed to advance the skills, tools and techniques of project and programme management staff to encourage them to make sound business decisions and to understand the key responsibilities required.

The most popular general course is 'How to Run a Project (and Succeed!) in 10 steps' 1-day course.

How are candidates assessed?

The general courses are aimed at those at all levels of project and programme management, from project team members to project sponsors, who are wishing to achieve specialised knowledge in bitesize length training sessions.

The pre-requisites required for the general courses are project or programme management experience ranging from as little as 6-months to 2-years.

We recommend delegates take Provek's free online PMA Lite assessment to help assess readiness and suitability.

Raise your project management to the next level

Professional Project Management

Three-day Course

This comprehensive three-day course is based on the Association for Project Management (APM) Body of knowledge and industry best practice. The course is designed to reinforce, improve and advance the skills and techniques of project management staff to encourage them to make sound business decisions and thereby manage their projects to a successful conclusion.

How to Run a Project (and Succeed!) in 10 steps

One-day Course

This one-day course is an introduction to managing projects and sets out a series of 10 logical steps and presents them in a practical way. The course is based on established project management principles which can be applied across industry and although it is not focused on individual organisational methods the training will seek to apply the learning to the specific environments that the delegates work in.

Effective Programme Management

Three-day Course

This three-day course will help new, aspiring or experienced programme managers to deliver specific change within their business that achieves strategically important benefits. It will describe and discuss a framework based on the Office of Government Commerce's (OGC's) Managing Successful Programmes (MSP) for implementing large-scale change that enables the business to accept and adopt change readily.

Project Management Overview For Sponsors

One-day course

This project management overview for sponsors is to enable more effective project sponsorship. The course enables senior management to understand the responsibilities attached to sponsoring a project and will provide the background skills required from a sponsor to keep a project on track.
